Well good for you, the shaft and gears are looking no worse for wear either. Any combination of things could have been causing the trouble. Obviously the O ring was not liking that very much It probably was hung up within the snap ring groove to peel off like that. There may have been a burr on that groove or paint on the machined area along with any dirt mixed in. Give the bore around the ...

Cub Cadet shows a 7264 as their current model. I assume it replaces the 25hp version. I would be cautious about purchasing that unit if you're planning to do much brush-hogging and loader work. I have an older Cub 7275 and love it. It is a slightly different design tractor and I think physically bigger plus has a 3 speed hydro.
