MBE is very lightweight, but is rated as a 600 k engine(50% fail by then). If you downshifted early they tended to pull pretty well. I didn't like it with an Eaton Ultrashift, though. From other drivers, C-13 used plenty of oil and DPF equipped ones were very troublesome, but I have no personal experience.

Here would be my take. I would agree with Leo in that it is rare to see any of these MBE engines go past the 500k mark. Most in one form or another get problems that seem to be centered around blown turbos, EGR problems, and injector issues. There has been enough issues tht one dealer drop the whole line and went to Cummins.

We have a Sterling with a MB engine. Last year we had a problem one morning where it would start and run for about a minute then die. When it died it showed 128 on the dash. When dealer said they were full up for about a week for a road mechanic to come out with a computer to check it out he did suggest checking fluid levels.
