One of the things I argue in my book is that we can talk about a Celtic civilisation in early history, pre-history, antiquity. Even in the Middle Ages there was a Celtic civilisation to talk of. However, when you actually get to the modern Irish and Scots, they are, if you like, the descendants of that Celtic civilisation.

The oldest archaeological evidence of the Celts comes from Hallstatt, Austria, near Salzburg. Excavated graves of chieftains there, dating from about 700 bce, exhibit an Iron Age culture (one of the first in Europe) which received in Greek trade such luxury items as bronze and pottery vessels. It would appear that these wealthy Celts, based from Bavaria to Bohemia, controlled trade routes along ...
