Rethink Faith : NPR

You Lost Me looks closer at the “insiders,” young people who were raised in the church, to find out why they left. Kinnaman estimates 60 to 80 percent of those raised in a church are no longer active in their faith or consider themselves church members—or even Jesus followers—by the time they are in their mid-20s.

You Lost Me - thegospelcoalition.org

Is the Church Losing the Next Generation? More than half of all Christian teens and twentysomethings leave active involvement in church. Based on research conducted by the Barna Group, You Lost Me exposes ways the Christian community has failed to equip young adults to live “in but not of” the world—to follow Christ in the midst of profound cultural change.
